

A conjunction is a word used to link or 'conjoin' words or phrases into a coherent whole. There are two classes of conjunctions: coordinate and subordinate.

coordinating conjunctions

A coordinating conjunction 'coordinates' two equivalent elements in a sentence, that is, words belonging to the same grammatical category (nouns + nouns, verbs + verbs, independent clause + independent clause, etc.). The most commonly used coordinating conjunctions in French are:

mais

but

ou

or

et

and

donc

so, thus

or

so, now

ni ... ni

neither ... nor

car

for

puis

then

Edouard n'aime ni le barbecue ni les hamburgers.

Edouard likes neither barbecue nor hamburgers.

Tex fume des cigarettes et boit du vin rouge.

Tex smokes cigarettes and drinks red wine.

subordinating conjunctions

A subordinating conjunction links an independent clause to a dependent clause. In other words, a subordinating conjunction joins two unequivocal clauses (independent and dependent). An independent clause is any clause that can stand alone to form a grammatical sentence. A dependent clause, on the other hand, cannot stand alone and thus 'depends' on the main clause in order to form a complete thought.

The most commonly used subordinate conjunctions:

que

that

pendant que

as, while

quand

when

lorsque

when

depuis que

since (indicating time)

tandis que

while, whereas

puisque

since

parce que

because

Il est évident que Tex fume trop.
(dependent)(independent)

It is obvious that Tex smokes too much.
